STILL BETTER.

THE PRESIDENT STEADILY IMPROVING.

Better Yesterday than any Day since Wounded—Pulse and Temperature Normal—Physicians' Opinions—Etc., etc., etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Upon being asked this morning if the president is stronger, Dr. Bliss emphatically asked, "How do you expect a man to grow stronger on 12 ounces of liquid food a day, a pretty high ten days' fever and a drain of a dangerous wound? No, he is not growing stronger. When the fever leaves him, when the wound is healed and he is eating 12 ounces of beefsteak three times a day, he will grow strong again; but he is getting every day nearer to the thing when he will be growing stronger and that is quite enough for us to be thankful for, is it not?"

9 A. M.

Dr. Bliss reports this morning that the president enjoyed a good night's rest, and that he looks bright and feels cheerful. His temperature at this hour he thinks is about normal, and his pulse about 96.

The President's Condition.

The president's condition to-day is better than ever. His appetite is very good. This morning he had for breakfast a little toast with the juice of steak over it, a small portion of prepared beef and some milk and rum. He ate with a relish and retained everything on his stomach. He has no fever to-day and had but little during the night, but sleep was longer than usual and more refreshing. Dr. Bliss said this morning that he is improving right along. If it were not that some unforeseen and unexpected accident might arise, I would say officially and positively that the president is out of danger. Dr. Barnes said: "The president is practically out of danger. He gets stronger and better every day. Everything is progressing very nicely.

7 P. M.

The president has continued doing well during the day. In the afternoon the fever has been slighter than on any day since the 2d; pulse 94, temperature 100.4, respiration 23.

Senator Butler Calls.

Senator Butler of South Carolina called at the White House to-day and saw the president's private secretary.

Further Account of the President's Condition.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The following telegram was sent by attending surgeons this P. M.:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, 1 P. M.

To Drs. F. H. Hamilton and D. H. Agnew: The president continues to do well. The afternoon fever is daily less marked. A smaller quantity of milk has been given him, and solid food substituted and relished. He has had less rum at intervals of several hours and some Tokay wine, in all about two ounces and a half of the latter. Last night his hypodermic injection consisted of 3.16 of grain of morphia only, which proved sufficient to secure rest. This morning we have altered the dose of sulphate of quinia to three grains to be taken three times daily. Yesterday at 7 P. M. his pulse was 98, temperature 98.5, respiration 18. At 1 P. M. to-day pulse 94, temperature 98.4, respiration 18.

THE MISSING WHALERS.

Career of Captain Faye, of the Mount Wollaston—His Family Hopeful.

PHILADELPHIA, July 15.—The commander of the long-lost whaler Mount Wollaston, referred to in a San Francisco dispatch to-day, was Ebenezer Faye, of Massachusetts, whose nephew, F. Eaton, is a resident of this city. In conversation this morning Eaton gave an interesting story of the intrepid sailor whose fate is still enshrouded in mystery. Faye is a native of Pocasset, Mass., about 63 years of age, has been a sailor since he was nine years of age, and has accumulated a fortune estimated at $300,000. Although no trace of Faye has been found, his family do not give him up for lost, as he has several times had such remarkable escapes from death. He has always been looked upon as a very lucky man. He has made a number of Arctic voyages, and has been shipwrecked three times, but always came out right. He sailed to the Arctic ocean, where his ship was driven ashore, and he was forced to return to San Francisco on the Arctic Star, having saved only the whalebone he had caught. As soon as the next season opened, he went up to where the Heroine had been driven ashore and found that all his oil had been saved by the Esquimaux for him. He was on very friendly terms with them and they had great regard for "Cappy Nye," as they called him, owing to the many acts of kindness he had shown them and his efforts to prevent the unnecessary killing of the walrus which forms their principal food. They were very grateful for this and would do almost anything for him, and this leads his family to believe that he has been sheltered by them either on Herald island or somewhere in that vicinity.

The Crews of the Whalers.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—It is the impression here that the crews of both the whalers were found by the Jeannette. It will be remembered that last winter when the appropriation for fitting out a search expedition was under consideration, one of the arguments advanced by the government favoring the appropriation was that it was reasonably certain from information brought by escaped whalers that the crews of the detained vessels were now consuming provisions of the Jeannette. The information at hand confirms the opinion then expressed.

POLITICAL CONSEQUENCES.

The Spoils System, and Assassination as its Consummation.

[Springfield (Mass.) Republican.]

The assassination of an American president is an event so terrible that we are glad it is not devoid of meaning and of political significance. A railroad collision or a madman might have been the means of President Garfield's death, but, if he must be taken off by violence, and particularly by crime, let us rejoice that his death means something. The assassination of President Garfield by a disappointed office-seeker is the consummation of the spoils system. Guiteau is a miserable ne'er-do-well, who shares the common feeling that all the offices are in the dispensation of the president of the United States, and that he has a claim upon that functionary for patronage. He is in sympathy with Arthur and Conkling in the struggle over the New York custom house. His wits have become only a degree more disordered than those of Conkling himself, and being a much weaker and feebler man, his vengeance has taken the direct and vulgar form of a pistol shot rather than the more refined form of resigning the seats of the republican majority in the United States senate and demanding a vindication from the state of New York. The practice of centering all patronage in the presidency, making his will and the will of his favorites the supreme test whether civil servants shall be retained or dismissed, regardless of their efficiency and regardless of the terms for which they were appointed,—this dictatorship of the offices can but have the effect to center upon the president all the intrigue and hostility of those disappointed,—the desperate political opposition of senators and men of high position, the malignity, hatred and violence of men of low instincts.

The presidential assassination, therefore, in the broad view, means that we, as a people, are drunk with office-seeking, and it will sober us. It will teach us the danger of associating with every presidential election the chances of revolution in 100,000 offices; it teaches us that we need to interpose between the president of the U. S. and the greed for these offices, the restraints of a system of appointment and promotion which will save him from the personal danger and the public scandal of patronage as now distributed, which will give him and his cabinet time to consider the grave public questions which are now crowded out by office-seekers' claims, and which will elevate our senators and congressmen from the position of brokers in place, and restore the civil service itself to the basis on which a great business enterprise of similar magnitude would be conducted. This assassination will shock a great, generous and law-abiding people, and they will demand civil service reform as its condonation. There will be no more apathy: there will be grief, and there will be works meet for repentance of a national sacrifice.

So much for the distant and the mature fruit of this terrible sacrifice, which cuts down a grand and chosen man in the beauty and strength of his power as the puissant head of a mighty people. It may be a long time coming, but it will come. Blood is not shed in vain.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Wheat and Corn Prospects.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Agricultural department returns July 1st: The wheat crop as reported is much better than June 1st and averages 83 for the whole country. The Atlantic states fall off slightly as compared with returns for the same time last year, but the large wheat region north of the Ohio river and west of the Mississippi return a low condition compared with 1880. Michigan reports only 64 per cent and Illinois 60. Ohio and Indiana are below last year, but report a fair prospect. Missouri and Kansas each make great complaint of damage from insects in spring wheat. Iowa alone returns a condition much lower than last year, which is only 72. The increase of area planted in corn is nearly 2 per cent over 1880. The average condition of the crop is not so high as the last two years, and is 90 against 100 last year. In all the north Atlantic states the crop is backward, owing to the cold, wet spring, but in the states south of the Delaware river and on the Gulf of Mexico it is reported as fair. Texas, however, reports serious injury from drouth. In the great corn producing region bordering on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers the average is below last year, particularly in the state of Iowa, which only reports 77 per cent, caused by too cold spring and too much rain in June. In Illinois and Missouri the condition is reported very favorable.

Pensions Clerks Discharged.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Wm. Dudley, commissioner of pensions, has recommended the discharge of over one hundred clerks, and reduction in the pay of over sixty.

Gen. Dudley ascertained the total annual appropriations subject to pay of employes was $794,070. The amount necessary to pay the force employed was $941,880, deficit $147,280. In deciding upon changes good of service is the great primary object.

The Cotton Crop.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Cotton returns to the agricultural department to July 15th show an improvement in the condition of cotton since reports of June. The average condition is 93 against 100 at the same time last year.

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

An Enquirer man called upon Secretary Blaine a few days ago, and in the course of a friendly chat the secretary remarked to our young man: "I got on and tipped the balance at 190 pounds. Just feel that leg." We claim that the Enquirer is the only newspaper in the United States whose representatives are permitted to feel Mr. Blaine's leg. Now is the time to subscribe.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

The Prison Investigation.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—The prison investigating committee to-day closed the prosecution as regards specific charges against the warden. The latter introduced in defense a number of officers of the prison and produced accounts to disprove the charges concerning financial management. Adjourned till next Thursday.

Died.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—Charles Coffin Harris, chief justice of Hawaii, is dead.

Drowned in Klamath River.

YREKA, July 15.—A man named Thomas O'Callaghan had trouble with a Chinese company on Klamath river at the mouth of Scott river about a claim to mining ground in that river and made an attack on the Chinamen, cutting ropes to the cribs ready to sink for a wing dam, besides threatening them with bodily harm, when the Chinamen pitched O'Callaghan into the river, in which he was drowned. The Chinamen have been arrested.

Work on the California Southern Pacific.

SAN DIEGO, July 15.—Another large party of Chinese laborers for the California Southern railroad arrived by steamer to-day, and in less than two hours were on the way to the front. The rapidity with which the work is being pushed has hardly been surpassed anywhere. Grading is going on actively in Cajon pass, as well as in Temecula valley. Work on the water front at this bay is also vigorously pushed, employing a large force of men and teams. Our streets are crowded to-day with teams carrying supplies forward to working parties in the northern part of the county.

NEVADA.

Richmond-Albion.

EUREKA, July 15.—Richmond rested its case at noon. Albion in rebuttal offered documentary evidence assailing the validity of the St. George patent. Richmond objects. The question of admissibility of this testimony is being argued this afternoon, and a great array of authorities is being produced on either side. It is really the big fight in the contest and goes to the very heart of the whole case. If the judge allows a patent to be attacked in this proceeding, it is big odds that Albion wins. If he should rule the other way this will virtually end the case in favor of Richmond.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Installation of Officers.

PORT TOWNSEND, July 14.—Public installation of officers of Mount Baker lodge, I. O. O. F., took place last evening, Dr. Lamb, D. D. G. M., presiding as installing officer. The following were officers installed: H. Landes, N. G.; Fred Rees, V. G.; S. D. Hill, secretary; Carl Sibel, treasurer; O. H. Holcomb, P. G. The ceremonies were followed by an elaborate address by his excellency Governor Newell, which was listened to with marked attention throughout. The governor, in the course of his remarks upon the future prospects of the Puget Sound country, stated it to be his conviction that Washington territory would yet prove to be the great business and commercial metropolis of America. His excellency returns to Olympia this morning.

THE NORTHWEST.

Western Oregon.

The present liabilities of Clackamas county over available funds, as shown by the annual exhibit are $8,475 07.

Mrs. Sarah Ann, wife of Wm. Armpriest, died at her residence on Molalla, Clackamas county, July 1st, aged 67 years.

G. W. Hauck of Monroe, recently sheared from one of his three-year old Merino rams a fleece of Montana flocks that weighed seventeen pounds.

Messrs. Wortman & Sons are closing out their business in Monroe, and hereafter they expect to devote their whole capital and energy to their business in Junction city.

Martha E., wife of T. J. Graves, of Bethel, and daughter of John Stetson, of Yamhill county, died July 7th, after an illness of several weeks, aged 2[illegible] years, 5 months and eight days.

Chas. Anderson of Canemah is now able to hobble around on crutches. It will be remembered that he broke his leg some weeks ago in a fall from the [illegible] house.

Gold has been discovered recently by Andy Wyland, John Ober and others on the Mosalla. The supposition is that the bars will be worked during the coming summer. They are estimated to pay from four to five dollars per man per day.

Pythian hall, soon to be built at Astoria, will be [illegible] feet in size, three stories high. The first story will be [illegible]. The first floor will be [illegible] second floor for [illegible].

Capt. A. M. Simpson arrived in Astoria on the 10th in one of his tugs from San Francisco, on a general tour of inspection. He put into nearly all the leading ports from San Francisco to the Columbia river, and will continue north at once.

Rice is declining in price in Astoria owing to the large amount received of late. Within a short time 250,000 mats have been landed from various ships from Hongkong. Thursday the price dropped five cents per sack, with a prospect of further decline.

Last week Delazon Trullinger, Clackamas county, son of G. J. Trullinger of Union mills, while removing a piece of bark from close proximity to the large circular saw, had his hand jerked against the teeth, and in a twinkling lost the first joint of the first finger of his right hand.

Thomas Reeves, of Alsea bay, claims that the lower Alsea valley is one of the most fertile sections on the Pacific Coast, and much of the land is being rapidly brought into cultivation, while the more broken country back from the bay is covered with inexhaustible forests of the very finest timber.

Washington Territory.

A band of cattle, 1003 head, was recently driven through Spokan Falls for Montana.

The Presbyterians have their new church building and parsonage at Goldendale nearly completed.

An immense water tank is being built by the O. R. & N. Co. a short distance above the new depot at Walla Walla.

The Columbia Chronicle says: Kill every water snake found along the streams, for they are said to destroy more trout than all the rest of the many enemies of this finny favorite.

Hundreds of cords of wood are being stored in Walla Walla for use the coming winter. The supply was short last year, very indifferent wood selling for weeks at $16 per cord.

A bunch of pie plant raised on the farm of Eugene White on Fourth Plain was lately shown in Vancouver, the stalks of which measured on an average, 28 inches in length. The largest measured 31 inches.

The wife of J. O. Bushnell is lying very ill at their home in Seattle, and is expected to live only a very few days. She has had the consumption for several years, and went from Albany to the Sound in the hope of recovering her health.

The bridge at Spokan is delaying work on the Northern Pacific longer than was at first deemed necessary. A false bridge has been thrown across the river, and as soon as the high water subsides, work will be commenced on an elaborate and expensive truss bridge.

A. Buchanan, near Lo Center, had an old-fashioned barn raising on Thursday, June 30th. There were thirty-four men present to raise the barn, besides several ladies to help prepare the dinner. It was the best turn out ever seen, in proportion to the number invited, and from appearances everybody had the intention of doing his share of the work and at the same time having a social chat with his neighbor. The barn is a frame building, 50x96 feet.

Spokan Times: The art of stealing horses in this country has become a science. It is practiced by both the Indian and white races. Horses are caught and ridden off the range, untied from stakes, and even taken from fields and barns. It is positively unsafe to turn horses loose upon the prairies of Spokan county, so numerous have thieves become of late. An organized band of these desperate fellows is said to be operating on the prairies east of Spokan Falls.

Two prisoners—Wesley Stevens and Charley Lord—confined in the Seatco penitentiary, made their escape on the 8th inst. A reward of $50 each has been offered for their recapture. It is thought they will attempt to work their way to British Columbia. Wesley Stevens is 22 years old, 6 feet 3 inches high, weighs 135 pounds, has hazel eyes, pale, freckled face, dark hair, scar on right side of the head, is smooth shaved, hair cut short. When he escaped he wore dark prison pants and striped shirt. Chas. Lord is 21 years of age, 6 feet high, weighs 165 pounds, has fair complexion, gray eyes, light hair, and was dressed like Stevens.

Assassination as the Agent of the Spoils System.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

It is universally agreed that the attempted assassination of President Garfield was the outcome of what is properly known as the "spoils system" of American politics. Had it not been for the exciting and irritating course adopted by Conkling and his faction there is no probability that Guiteau or any other vagabond would have become possessed with the fiendish idea of destroying the president because he has arrayed his personal and official powers against the advocates and office-seekers of the spoils system. Had it not been for the prevalence of this same accursed system Conkling would not have adopted the sensational course of resigning in order to influence his [illegible] powers and admirers into extraordinary passion and activity. Conkling is engrossed with machine politics and office-getting, bossism and corruption in government. As a matter of fact Conkling is the leader only of the spoils faction, and it was in that character that he adopted the unusual and violent policy of forcing a fight to protect his [illegible] rights as recognized by the spoils system. The assassin Guiteau is a product of the spoils system almost as directly as the assassins of the late czar of Russia were products of nihilism.

The Fruit of a Deadly Disease.

[Chicago Times.]

To deny that this national tragedy has any political relation or significancy is both futile and foolish. The opposite is true. It is the effect of evil political forces, the expression of a malevolent political spirit, the corollary and consequence of a vicious political system. As a conspicuous teacher of morality has forcibly said, "The president 'came in collision with some of the worst forces that operate in American politics, and suffers for his course.' No charge of conspiracy is intended in this remark." It does not imply a conspiracy, nor any conscious co-operation of different minds. It means only that the deed is the outcome and fruit of immoral and vicious political forces, put and maintained in action by a corrupting, degrading, deadly disease of the body political, known as the spoils disease.

Timely Discussion.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The Post this evening, of the fund now raising for Mrs. Garfield, [illegible] that the president's recovery will [illegible] to the fund a very [illegible] and on many accounts [illegible] the gift be that this should be frankly [illegible] by the press in advance. One or two subscribers have made their subscriptions [illegible] upon his death. In case of his recovery it will of course be very difficult to distinguish between a gift to the president and a gift to the president's wife. The plan of putting money in trust does not remove this difficulty. Among subscribers are men interested in promotion of legislation for private enterprises of all sorts. This legislation must come before the president for approval or disapproval, and it is of almost importance not merely that he should be subject to no private bias in favor of promoters of such enterprises, but that he should not be exposed to any suspicion of such bias. The general sympathy with him in his present condition should not blind us to the facts that [illegible] with all the [illegible] and ingenuity that party spirit can supply, and that the acceptance of money by his wife from men who are knocking every year at the door of congress [illegible] a handle for his enemies which they will be free to use.

News from the Cutter Corwin.

PORTLAND, Me., July 15.—The Argus of yesterday says: Capt. C. L. Hooper, commanding the cutter Corwin, writes from Plover bay, Siberia, June 12, saying, "We reached St. Lawrence island May 28, and entered the arctic regions on June 2d. We lost a rudder in the loosely latitude 64 degrees 10 minutes north, and had to steer several days by jury rudder. The same day on which the accident occurred we landed Lieutenants Herring and Reynolds, one seaman and two natives, equipped with twenty-five dogs and four sleds, with two months rations, arms, ammunition, plenty of fur clothing, tents and a skin coat, with instructions to explore the coast of and as far north as Jackson for tidings of the Jeannette. A report has been received that seal hunters have seen the wreck of the whalers, the Vigilant and Mount Wollaston. Natives boarded the Vigilant last November at North Cape, and found the bodies of the crew. The Wollaston was found eighty miles further north. Both vessels were stove in and full of water." Captain Hooper said he would endeavor to get every information, and get back to St. Michaels by July 12th, in time to catch the steamer St. Paul, and forward details. The season in the Arctic has been very open.

A Narrow Policy.

HARTFORD, July 15.—There is a probability that the promising educational scheme which the Chinese government has been trying in this country for the past ten years will speedily come to an end. There is reason to believe that Chin Lan Pin and Young Wing, the ambassadors to this country, have been superseded by a new minister, who is instructed to put a stop to the educational project and have those connected with it, students, instructors and attendants sent back to China. The headquarters of the commission has always been in this city, where it owns a fine building for a residence. There are at least 1000 young men in the country, about 500 being in various colleges, while the others are in preparatory schools. They are picked boys of good families, have exhibited great aptitude for study and have made themselves favorites everywhere. The abandonment of the enterprise if it is decided upon will occasion much regret. It was originated by Young Wing, himself a Yale graduate and one of the most progressive Chinese statesmen of the age. He has resided in this country during the past ten years and with the sanction of his government adopted American dress and married an American wife, an intelligent lady of Avon, in this state. For several years he has been associated with Chin Lan Pin in charge of the embassy to this country. It is reported that both these gentlemen are preparing to return to China, and that the first boys to be returned will be those of the recently formed school of telegraphy.

A Disputed Point.

ST. LOUIS, July 15.—Notwithstanding the fact that Chief Justice Sherwood yesterday granted the stay of execution in the case of Chas. F. Krug, sentenced to be hanged today, Circuit Attorney Harris sent instructions to Sheriff Mason this morning to proceed with the execution. The sheriff consulted counsel and notified Mr. Harris that he declined to recognize his authority in the matter. Opinion is somewhat divided as to whether Judge Sherwood had authority under the state laws to grant stay or take any action at all in the case. Public feeling is quite strong against Krug and perhaps a majority of the people wish to have him suffer the penalty of the law for the atrocious crime he committed.

Charged with Wife Murder.

Jones Atkinson was arrested to-day among the Mississippi islands in the extreme southeast of this state, charged with murdering his wife and children July 4th and throwing their bodies in the river, where they were found. Family troubles are the cause. Other relatives were also arrested as accessories.

Free Passes.

CONCORD, N. H., July 15.—Wm. E. Chandler's bill to punish the giving or receiving illegal free passes on railroads was to-day indefinitely postponed by a vote of 175 to 35.

Cricket.

PHILADELPHIA, July 15.—Canadian Cricketers again defeated to-day, this time by Merion eleven.

A Peaceful Peanut Vender.

NEW YORK, July 16.—An Italian arrested in New Orleans and brought here as Esposito, the notorious bandit, gives a long account of his life showing that he has always been a peaceful peanut vender. The keeper of the Ludlow street jail says that Esposito hasn't brains enough to be a bandit, and is the most inoffensive man around the place.

The Hebrew Council.

CHICAGO, July 15.—The Hebrew union in session here three days adjourned sine die after adopting reports encouraging immigration of the Jews and their engagement in agricultural pursuits, and transacting other business mostly of a routine character.

Shortage in Iowa.

The secretary of the Iowa state board of agriculture states that there will be a shortage of hundreds of thousands of bushels of corn, wheat and oats in Iowa crop this year.

THE TURF.

Maud S. to Go Again.

PITTSBURG, July 14.—Vanderbilt has telegraphed Capt. Stone to let Maud S. trot another heat against time at the Pittsburg driving park on Saturday.

Pittsburg Races.

PITTSBURG, July 14.—Weather to-day was most propitious since the opening of the Pittsburg Driving Park Association. Cool, track in splendid condition. Between six and seven thousand people were present. There was little interest in the unfinished races of the day previous. Maud S. was led to the front of the grand stand and presented with a floral tribute by the ladies of Pittsburg for her brilliant achievement of Wednesday. St. Julien also was led by the stand and an explanation made

France-Turkish Affairs.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 14.—In reply to reiterated inquiries on the part of France, Assim Pasha has explained the dispatch of the Turkish troops to Tripoli to have been simply an administration measure. It is reported that French emissaries have been found in Tripoli with compromising documents in their possession.

The Pope's Bones.

ROME, July 15.—Tanfulla announces that a diplomatic body accredited to the Vatican to-day went to the Vatican by express invitation of the people who addressed them in an oral protest in regard to the disturbances during the removal of the remains of Pius IX. Jacobini, the papal secretary, states that he has sent a similar protest to papal nuncios abroad.

A THUG'S DIABOLISM.

The Villainy of the Assassin Laid Bare.

DELIBERATE, DEVILISH, DAMNABLE.

How he Followed the President from Place to Place for the Purpose of Murdering him. The Whole Story.

[illegible]

Guiteau's Wealthy Widow.

Guiteau's Abuse of Blaine.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Tribune's Washington: After the nomination of Garfield and Arthur, Guiteau wrote a [illegible] Blaine [illegible] that he [illegible] put [illegible]. It is said that Guiteau was [illegible] to be employed in Maine during the late political campaign as a stump speaker, and wrote several letters on the subject setting forth his own merits. He seems not to have met with success in any of his efforts to attract Blaine's favorable notice. The secretary, who will of course be the important witness in the trial of Guiteau, declines to allow the letters to be published.

As Good as He used to Pay For.

Guiteau is still closely guarded and nobody allowed to see him. He complains of indigestion from prison food but could get nothing better. He still claims that he was better to Garfield than Garfield was to the republican party. The inspiration first came to him just after Conkling and Platt resigned. His being forcibly ejected from the white house by the president's order, had nothing to do with his attempt. His statements regarding the election were conflicting enough to warrant suspicion that the assault was rather personal revenge than anything else. He tells various stories as to the inception of his determination, placing the date at widely diverse times. Guiteau is not as ignorant of the condition of the president as he has been. His cheerfulness is evidently assumed. His eyes are bloodshot.

Very Pertinent Remarks.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The Tribune says: A man who deliberately plans an assassination for five days before he makes the dastardly assault, who goes about examining arms, and when he has purchased a pistol weeks in advance of his crime practices first at a board so as to improve his marksmanship; who dogs his victim's steps, following him one day to church and selecting a perch where he can fire at him on the following Sunday; who watches for his man in the depot, on street corners and wherever he is likely to meet him until at last he runs him to the earth, is sane enough in all conscience. The complete account which District Attorney Corkhill furnishes of the assassin's movements from March 6th to July 2d renders the story of his insanity utterly untenable. To believe it almost implies insanity in him who believes.

CONGREGATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF OREGON AND WASHINGTON.

First Day.

This association met at Salem on Thursday, July [illegible], at [illegible] o'clock, and thus far ten ministers and [illegible] lay delegates have been present.

Prof. G. H. Collier, LL. D., of Forest Grove, was elected moderator, Rev. M. Zellie of [illegible] and W. [illegible] Clark, and Deacon G. H. [illegible] of Portland, assistant clerk.

The meeting was then formally opened with reading of the scriptures, singing and prayer, and Rev. E. S. Knight, Bro. L. A. Mecham and Dr. S. P. Hatch were appointed a committee on religious exercises.

Rev. J. T. Marsh of the Hudson River Association, N. Y., was invited to sit as a corresponding member.

Afternoon Session.

Rev. C. L. [illegible], who came to this coast forty-three years ago as a missionary, led the prayer and conference meeting on the subject of foreign missions. He said [illegible] of the stone cut out of the mountain without hands, and becoming a great mountain. He continued that he spoke of the consecration of children as the means of obtaining the needed missionaries, and the training of children to give, as the means of obtaining the money, and related several incidents to illustrate these points.

Others spoke of the return of Rev. J. T. Walker from China and of the wisdom of the missionary boards in calling home their missionaries once in about ten years, both for the benefit conferred on the missionaries in again bringing them in contact with civilized life, and also on the churches in giving them missionary instruction warm from the field, and of the fact that no work for Christ was ever lost, although it might seem to be so, any more than any force in nature was ever lost.

Rev. A. W. Bower then read an essay on the essentials of public worship. He dwelt largely on the subject of worship, as a spiritual conception of a spiritual being, the indwelling of God with the individual believer and with the body of believers, that worship is not to be conducted by the minister alone, but by all the people, and that the children should be better cared for than at present.

That was followed by a wide discussion in which responsive reading of select portions of the scripture in public worship was strongly favored, as practiced now in the Congregational churches at Salem and the Dalles, the individual preparation of the hearer for the service beforehand, the upholding of the pastor's hands with prayer, and family worship emphasized, while it feared that we too often forget that we go to church to worship God.

The whole subject was then put in the hands of a committee consisting of Doctors Atkinson and Watts and Rev. J. T. Marsh for further report.

In the evening Rev. M. Jelly preached the associational sermon from Luke [illegible], subject the redemption of [illegible] the Indians have had [illegible] Oregon and Washington [illegible] United States, [illegible] Willamette University and Whitman seminary, and otherwise aiding in education, literature, science, arts and religion, and also in the help obtained in nearly every Indian war which had devastated the coast. He was assisted in the services by his venerable father, who also was present. It being remarked that it was not often that three generations are present at the meetings of the association.

Second Day—Friday.

Dr. W. [illegible] of the Grand Traverse conference, Michigan, was invited to sit as a corresponding member. The first half hour was spent in devotional exercises. After this miscellaneous business was taken up.

The committee on printing the history of the association appointed last year, reported that the history had been printed by brother Himes at his own risk, and a committee consisting of Messrs. Lyman, Parrott and Himes were appointed to report further on the matter.

A special communication was received from Rev. J. Powell, treasurer of the National Congregational council, which was referred to the committee for the [illegible] of the churches.

Rev. W. M. Barr was elected secretary of the American Home Missionary Society, was invited to sit as a corresponding member.

The secretary of the American Home Missionary Society reported that ten churches and stations are [illegible] by the society in Oregon and [illegible] in Washington. The treasurer reported that last year there was a balance on hand of $[illegible] and that [illegible] had been received during the year [illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] leaving $[illegible] on hand. It was voted that the [illegible] be [illegible] to the [illegible] at New York.

The [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible].

The same officers for the society were re-elected: Deacon G. Shindler, president; Deacon L. M. Parrish, vice president; Jacob Stoel, treasurer; L. A. Mecham, secretary; Rev. Dr. Atkinson, superintendent.

A vote of thanks was given Rev. A. H. Bradford, of New Jersey, who visited our coast several years ago, for an able report of our religious needs, which he presented at the late meeting of the American Home Missionary Society at Chicago.

STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Fifth Day.

The following resolutions were adopted by the State Teachers' Association [illegible]:

Resolved, That [illegible] spelling [illegible]:

[illegible]

Resolved, That the association recommends the establishment of night schools in all districts where the wants of such demand them.

Resolved, That we also recommend the early establishment of a state reform school.

Resolved, That the teachers of Oregon are pleased to see the educators of Washington territory present with them. To Mr. Clark and brother Anderson and to all other teachers from Washington territory they extend the right hand of fellowship, and hope to see more and more of them present at each succeeding meeting of this association. We feel that the education of the people is a common work, not bounded by state lines, and we are anxious to co-operate as far as possible with the educators of all adjoining states and territories in building up a common school system west of the Rocky mountains that will rival the best systems of New England or the middle states.

Resolved, That we, as members of the State Teachers' Association believe that teachers' institutes are invaluable as a means of mutual acquaintance, consultation and co-operation, that they supply in a measure the want of a normal school, affording the means of a more thorough preparation for our individual labors, and from the experience already had in them we regard them as indispensable to the highest interests of the cause of education.

Resolved, That the thanks of this association are hereby tendered to all railroad and steamboat companies that have favored us with half fare rates.

Resolved, That we thank our secretary and his assistants for the careful and pleasant manner in which they have discharged the duties of their office.

Resolved, That we are much obliged to the Portland board of school directors and through them to the people of Portland for the free use of the Park school building.

Resolved, That we express our entire satisfaction with the instruction received from Prof. C. H. Allen of the state normal school of California and feel that the methods and principles that he has presented are worthy patient thought and trial.

Resolved, That we have highly appreciated and enjoyed the music furnished by Prof. L. E. Motschman at Taylor street M. E. church, also the music at the Park building by Misses Fannie Ohlinger, Lulu Bryan, and Gertie Gaillick and our thanks are hereby tendered to these parties.

Resolved, That our obligations to Mr. Wm. Finter, janitor of the Park building, are many for his services in rendering our meetings pleasant by his constant attention to all our wants and to the comfort of our convenience and providing for the same.

Appropriate resolutions were adopted in relation to the death of Mrs. P. H. Graves of the Dalles and Prof. W. Lynn Waite of Portland.

The association then adjourned.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 16, 1881.

TRANSITORY FAME.

During the last years of his life Lord Beaconsfield had a brilliant and even a dazzling reputation. But it misled few persons who could distinguish tinsel from good gold. His fame great as it was, even during his lifetime was regarded as meteoric and transitory, and since his death, though it is only a few months since he passed away—this judgment has already been receiving signal confirmation. His was a reputation made by great art, rather than by able exposition of great principles. The foundations on which it was built were perishable, and are even now manifestly crumbling away. It is said of him that he was as fortunate in dying when he did as in living when he did; and this judgment is established by passing and impending events. The greatest act of his life, or that which he considered was the greatest, and which brought him the largest temporary honor and fame, the shaping of the treaty of Berlin, is already considered to be without greatness at all, and the nation that received it with such loud applause and heaped such honors upon him because of it, is ready to undo it all. The treaty of Berlin is only three years old, and yet it is discredited. In the house of commons a liberal member has moved that England should intimate distinctly to Turkey that she intends to withdraw from the compact, because, in spite of Turkey's continued refusal to respect its conditions, the treaty as it now stands is binding upon England, and in the possible contingency of an Armenian insurrection and Russian intervention she would be bound by her guarantees to go to Turkey's assistance. Since, therefore, Turkey does not, perhaps can not, respect the conditions of the treaty, it is claimed that England ought to be absolved from it. This motion, we are told, is given other consistency and meaning by the fact that the English government has already definitely resolved upon the abandonment of Cyprus; and not because its acquisition, as broadly stated by a member of the government, had furnished a precedent and excuse to France for the acquisition of Tunis, but because it is absolutely valueless for the purpose for which it was acquired. Cyprus was to be made a barrier against the progress of any foreign rival to the road to India; but it can be made no such barrier, as even the supporters of Lord Beaconsfield now admit. It is simply an enormously costly mistake, and as England has the power to get rid of it she proposes to do so.

Other great measures of Lord Beaconsfield's administration are not faring better. A grand scheme of his was the occupation of Cabul and Candahar, in order to establish as he declared, "a scientific frontier" for India. But Cabul was evacuated long ago, and Candahar recently, and not only is the entire scheme of "a scientific frontier" cast to the winds, but the native rulers are fighting each other precisely after the good old fashion in Afghanistan. In South Africa the policy of the late prime minister has also been set aside. The Boers, whose independence was to be wrested from them, and who were to be made subjects, in some sort, of Great Britain, fought for their independence and have had it recognized. There is, in fact, nothing left except the Berlin treaty of all that brilliant foreign policy of which Lord Beaconsfield was so proud, and upon which he rested his power. And it is evident that that too must be swept away with the rest. The political enemies of its author were not slow to perceive and point out that that famous "treaty," which, while it brought "peace with honor," also bound England, as the price of peace, to all manner of things in connection with Turkey and her dependencies. By it England made herself responsible for Turkey's existence as an independent power and guarantee for her in connection with her promises of reform. It was an excellent compact for Turkey, but a very bad one for England, for Turkey has kept none of the promises she made at Berlin. The truth is that she has never kept any promise which it was possible for her to avoid, and it was scarcely likely that she would change her policy, knowing that no matter how openly she disregarded her pledges England would be still bound to come to her rescue in case she was threatened by the other powers for not regarding them.

A short time since a member of Mr. Gladstone's government, addressing his constituents at Leeds, declared that the government was doing quite as well as could be expected, considering the very large number of vexatious complications it had inherited from its predecessor. He likened its position to that of a legatee who has been left nothing in the testator's will but expensive and troublesome lawsuits. Even the Irish troubles, which are unquestionably the worst that the present government has to contend with, it is insisted by Mr. Gladstone's party, came down to him as a result of his predecessor's "brilliant foreign policy," which he pursued so exclusively as to permit affairs not foreign to go entirely neglected. This is a partisan statement, and therefore cannot be regarded as wholly just. Nevertheless it is true that what were called the "great measures" of Lord Beaconsfield's career have no permanency. He did nothing and left nothing that will signalize his career as an epoch in English history. Nor are the seeds of future history in the ephemeral and theatrical politics to which he devoted his life and by which he gained immense though transitory applause.

FONETIK FILOSOFERS.

The state teachers association has been wrestling with "fonetiks." Yesterday it resolved that "the teachers of this institute accept the immediate use in their schools of the following spelling, sanctioned by the philological association, viz.: Ar, hav, liv, giv, definit, infinit, gard, catalog, tho, thru, wisht."

Perhaps it would be as well to remind "the teachers of this institute" that the schools which they teach are not their schools. They are the schools of the people; and the people have a right to demand, and do demand, that correct spelling be taught in them.

It would be well for school directors throughout the state to keep watch over this matter. We have a right to expect the English language to be correctly taught in our public schools. Children must not be deceived as to the proper spelling of words. Standard authority must be followed. There is a right way to spell words, and that right way discards all imitations of the Nasby and Josh Billings style.

Our dictionaries and standard writers are authority on the proper spelling of words, and the only authority. A lot of people of no authority in literature, even though they take unto themselves the titles of philological societies and teachers' associations, can't change the settled usages of the language; and their hobby is alike ridiculous and impertinent.

We can not suppose that the changes which the teachers of the institute have resolved to adopt are actually approved by many of the teachers who have allowed themselves to go on the record as approving them. In teachers' institutes as in political conventions, there are bosses and followers; and we suppose this resolution was carried by the importunity of the former prevailing over the passivity of the latter. It can not but be that there are sensible teachers who are disgusted with this persistent effort to find wrong and uncouth ways of spelling words. As any rate the resolution adopted by the institute to teach incorrect spelling will be discountenanced, as it should be, and the public schools of the state will be protected against it.

If anybody wants to teach an erroneous system of spelling, a false multiplication table or a new theory of the solar sytem he would do well to open a private academy, advertise his methods, and solicit patronage on his merits. The people want no hobbies, fallacies, absurdities or crotchety errors in the public schools.

To conclude for the present, if it would not be too much to expect fonetik filosofers to give a good reason for any of their whimseys, we should like to know why the conspiracy against the canons of the language is confined to the eleven words enumerated above and singled out for mutilation.

SPECIFIC STATEMENTS.

It is not now to the people of Portland that desperate efforts have been made to control the contest for the mayoralty by means of a most infamously corrupt character. Statements on this subject have hitherto been made in a vague and general way. For information of the public and in the interest of public morals, we now put them in definite shape. If anything could open the eyes of our people to the enormity of this species of infamy, this recital ought to do it. THE OREGONIAN presents on its responsibility as a public journal, and is ready to verify, what it here asserts, and it will engage that the proofs can be had by any tribunal authorized by law to make the necessary inquisition.

Ever since the city election, which took place on the 20th June last, members of the common council have been plied with offers of money to give their support to Mr. Simon in the contest for the mayoralty. To Mr. J. S. Keller two offers have been made—one of $500, the other of $2000. If particulars are wanted let Mr. Keller be put on the stand. To Mr. J. B. Kellogg word was sent that he could have $500 if he would abandon Mr. Thompson and support Mr. Simon, and an intimation followed the offer that more could be had if necessary, as money was no object. These offers were made soon after the contest began.

Thursday evening of this week was the time appointed for the final meeting of the common council to settle the contest. Thursday, therefore, afforded the last chance. On that day an attempt was made on Mr. W. B. Honeyman. To him a direct offer was made, in the interest of Mr. Simon, of $2500 in cash, with the additional consideration of $10,000 which he was to be shown how he could make, presumably on contracts for work in the line of business he is pursuing. What offers have been made to other members of the common council we do not know with certainty, but we doubt not that by invoking the particular mode of inquisition which the law appoints more instances could be found.

Here is an alarming state of facts. Are not these grave offences to be inquired into? Perhaps the common council may not think it best to do so, since the inquiry would in any event go before another tribunal. But the grand jury can start an investigation. We shall see if it can be manipulated so as to suppress it. THE OREGONIAN hereby makes it known that the testimony is obtainable. Let there be thorough inquiry. If what is here alleged be presented in court the public will be enabled to know who the persons are who have so much money to invest in the contest for the mayoralty, and who they are who do not stick at the crime of trying to carry their point by wholesale bribery. This journal has now done its duty. Will the people and their tribunals do theirs?

Perhaps the common council have acted wisely in turning over the mayoralty question to Chief Justice Lord for decision. There are few if any lawyers in the state whose opinion on the legal point involved would be more likely to be correct. Besides, it is a convenient way for our councilmen to get out of the unpleasant responsibility of doing their plain duty. But suppose Judge Lord should decline as he has the right to do, the matter not being before him in his judicial capacity, what would be the result? Would the council set out on another expedition in search of some distinguished jurist who would relieve them from the task of deciding a question which the charter plainly says they themselves must decide for the people who elected them? It will be a fortunate thing if Judge Lord shall conclude to accept the responsible trust tendered to him; but if, as some good lawyers hold, the question is one which may come before the courts, under the constitution, notwithstanding the attempt of the legislature to exclude it from judicial consideration, an extrajudicial decision of it by the chief justice might become very embarrassing.

---

It was well enough, no doubt, under all circumstances, to submit to Judge Lord the question whether the ballot which bears the names of both candidates for the mayoralty should be counted for Simon, for Thompson, or for neither of them; though all know that the common council can not legally delegate its authority. Still, as all have agreed to abide the result, it is as well to have an end of the contest. It can not be hard to decide what should be done with the ballot in question. The statute disposes of it. Among legal men (excepting of course the attorneys employed to maintain the doctrine that this ballot decides the election) there is no doubt that it should be rejected. Such is the opinion of Judge Deady, Judge Williams and others of eminence in law. But in fact anybody can decide at once that the ballot which the statute expressly declares "fraudulent" can not be legally counted.

---

When Conkling and Platt resigned they published an address, saying: "The great state of New York has many sons as able as we to bear her message to the national capital." Yet ever since they have been trying to prevent any of those "able sons" from being elected to bear that message; and Conkling still holds on with desperation, though he knows he has no possible chance of being elected himself, and though he knows moreover that his persistence will give his state to the opposition and elect two opposition senators. The one thing that will compensate the republican party of New York for defeat is the fact that it is forever rid of this selfish and imperious leader of "bossism."

---

Speaking of the alleged insanity of Guitteau the Chicago Tribune says:

> People who have been brought in contact with him, and who have been hoodwinked, deceived, cheated and robbed by him, now good naturedly call him "crazy," "half crazy," "fanatical." But it has never occurred to any one of these hundreds—nay, thousands—of sufferers by his peculations and impositions, to have the alleged "half crazy" scamp locked up in an insane asylum.

In all such cases "insanity" is an afterthought.

They who put up large sums of money to corrupt elections and bribe officials expect, of course to get it back in one way or another out of the taxpayers, and with compound interest. This phase of the question is of interest to taxpayers, apart from the interest they feel in it as citizens holding crimes against public order in proper detestation.

---

One of the pictorial papers represents Conkling in the great act of self-decapitation, and on the next page in the act of carrying his head up to the capitol at Albany and saying to the female figure which represents the state, "Please put it on again, it hurts." He isn't getting it put on again.

OREGONIAN AT THE RESORTS.—Parties can have THE DAILY OREGONIAN sent to them at any of the seaside resorts, at $1 per month, on leaving their address at the business office of this paper.

OREGONIAN AT [illegible].—Extra copies of the DAILY at E. C. Holden's, for the accommodation of visitors.

CITY.

MORE BURGLARY.—About 9 o'clock Thursday evening the residence of Mr. P. Zan, at No. 31 Caruthers street, was entered by a member of the light-fingered brigade. Both Mr. and Mrs. Zan were absent until after 9 o'clock, thus affording the enterprising burglar an opportunity to ply his vocation. Shortly after the city clock tolled the hour named, Mrs. Zan returned home. Before entering the house she stood for some minutes in the front yard conversing with another lady. Presently she entered the house by way of the kitchen. She was much surprised to find the back door open. On entering the sitting room the lady was still more surprised to find a suit of her husband's clothes lying on the floor. Apprehensive that a burglar was about the premises, Mrs. Zan called in two of her neighbors and communicated to them her fears. They went through the house but found no burglar. However, the most unmistakable indications were discovered that the premises had been visited by one. Up stairs everything was found in a state of confusion. The bureau drawers were opened and ransacked and the bed rolled up. From appearances the burglar had vacated the premises suddenly. He probably was in the house when Mrs. Zan came home, and hearing her talking in the front yard he became frightened and made his escape. He came near making a good haul, however. Mrs. Zan had placed her husband's watch, several articles of jewelry and some money, in a small satchel and stowed it away under the bolster at the head of the bed. The burglar rolled up the bed but failed in his haste to discover the valuables. The thief had effected an entrance by unlocking the kitchen door. So far as could be ascertained, he had left the house empty-handed.

HEAD CRUSHED.—Mr. H. A. Morgan, agent for the railroad company at Hillsboro, met with a very serious accident Thursday afternoon. Just before the train was pulling out from Hillsboro, Mr. Morgan attempted to couple a flat car loaded with lumber with a box car. The lumber projected over the front of the car, and when the two came together Mr. Morgan's head was caught between the ends of the projecting lumber and the car in front and badly crushed. It was at first thought that his injuries were serious, but a telegram to Supt. Brandt brings information that the injured man shows symptoms of recovery. No blame is attached to any one except Mr. Morgan himself, who failed to notice the condition of the lumber projecting over the front of the flat car, had he done which he could easily have coupled the cars and escaped unhurt.

BAR BUOYS.—The Astorian says: "Capt. Reiter informs us that the bar buoys have been so placed that the automatic buoy, the outer bar buoy and the mid channel buoy are all in line E. N. E. and W. S. W. A first class can buoy has been substituted for the spar buoy marking the channel across the cut off, and placed about an eighth of a mile westward of the former position of the spar buoy. A second-class can buoy No. 4 has been substituted for the first-class can buoy, marking the north channel."

MORE ATTRACTIONS.—Manager Stechhan writes to Mr. Coursen, his agent in this city, that he has closed with the eminent American tragedian Wm. E. Sheridan; that he would open at New Market theater on the 4th of August. Mr. Sheridan will be supported by a powerful company and will appear in his full repertoire of Shakesperian characters. Mr. Stechhan also writes that he is organizing an excellent "Hazel Kirke" combination, which will follow Mr. Sheridan's season.

INSANE MAN.—Mr. Byron Reynolds, who resides over on Columbia slough, came to East Portland yesterday afternoon and informed the authorities of that city that there was a crazy man over in his neighborhood, who should be taken charge of. He was represented to be very violent and people were afraid he would do some injury or damage. City Marshal Charles Gallerneau and Constable C. H. Hill started at once to take the alleged maniac into custody.

JACK POWERS.—A report was in circulation on the streets yesterday afternoon and last evening to the effect that Jack Powers, who was shot on the evening of July 4th, was dying at St. Vincent hospital. The report was incorrect. Powers was attacked with severe hemorrhages about half-past one yesterday afternoon. After some difficulty the flow of blood was staunched. Although weak from the loss of blood, Powers was resting comfortably last evening.

OPEN TEMPERANCE MEETING.—The meeting which takes place at 8 o'clock this evening at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. will will be addressed by Dr. Truesdell from California. This gentleman has been in the lecture field for a number of years and is an able man and fluent speaker. He is thoroughly posted on the liquor question, and the audience may anticipate an excellent address. Music and other exercises. The public invited. No collection.

BASE BALL.—The Salem Statesman of yesterday says: The Portland nine cannot come next Saturday but say that they will be here on the 30th and play the Eurekas at that time if they desire to meet them on that date, but as several members of the Salem nine are going to leave before that date and their places being hard to fill, it is not probable that there will be a game.

INSTALLATION.—At the last regular meeting of Industry Lodge No. 8, A. O. U. W., the following officers were installed: A. Thurlow, P. M. W.; Geo. P. Lent, M. W.; A. W. Witherell, foreman; W. H. Creighton, recorder; G. Pleasance, O.; W. C. McKean, G.; W. G. Jenne, receiver; E. L. Reed, financier; Wm. Barcroft, I. W.

STEAMER BEACHED.—The old steamer Idaho was beached yesterday on the east side of the river opposite the Ash street dock. As soon as the water recedes the steamer will be screwed up and a new hull built. It is the purpose of the company to send the Idaho over to the sound after she has been rebuilt and overhauled.

BODY NOT RECOVERED.—The body of little Ralph Nesmith Cook, who was drowned at Clifton fishery on the lower Columbia, last Sunday, has not been recovered yet although diligent search has been made for it.

IN THE DRY DOCK.—The steamer Welcome is now in the dry dock at Oregon City undergoing a general overhauling. The Welcome will be sent around to the sound as soon as she is ready for service.

REPORTED DEAD.—B. F. Hartman, the unfortunate man who was so seriously injured by the railroad disaster near Waitsburg, W. T., is reported to have died from the effects.

TWO SMALL BLAZES.

Yesterday morning about 7 o'clock an alarm of fire was sounded to which the department promptly responded. An old outhouse which stands in the rear of H. E. Edwards' furniture store on Second street, was discovered on fire. A stream of water well directed quickly extinguished the flames. The damage amounted to nothing.

Just while the excitement incident to the above alarm was attracting everybody's attention, J. A. Campbell discovered a blaze in Mr. D. Nolan's wood house in Corbett's block, corner of Third and Morrison streets. The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary. A large amount of kindling and a number of goods boxes were burned. Mr. Campbell secured several buckets of water and extinguished the flames without giving the alarm.

About 9:30 last evening the department was called out again. This time it was a pile of lumber lying at the rear of J. F. D. Wrinkle's store, near Salmon street between First and Second. By some means the lumber caught fire, and when discovered was blazing up brightly. No One reached the scene first and got the first water on the fire. Damage nominal.

Portland seems to be infested with incendiaries at present. During the past few days four or five fires have been extinguished which were unmistakably the work of incendiaries. Last evening about 20 minutes before the alarm was sounded, Policemen Henline and Hickey discovered a small fire burning at the rear end of the Aurora saloon, on Clay street, between First and Front. A heap of kindling, pieces of goods boxes, etc., had been piled up against the side of the house. In a few minutes the house would have been in flames. The officers, assisted by the barkeeper, soon extinguished the fire.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Hood River fruits and vegetables are now coming in this market; buyers should give them the preference over California stuff, as they are fresher. D. C. Mackey & Co. are in regular receipt of same. See ad in another column.

The following complimentary notice of Col. E. C. Mason has been officially issued by Gen. Wheaton, commanding this department: Lieutenant-Colonel Mason was assigned to duty in the department of the Columbia as major of the 21st infantry in July, 1872. He commanded with conspicuous gallantry a battalion of the 21st infantry in the field during the Modoc war, and served with credit and distinction in the Nez Perce campaign of 1877 and the Bannock campaign of 1878. He was assigned to duty as acting assistant inspector general of this department in February, 1877, and has continued in that capacity up to the present time. He has discharged the duties of this office with marked zeal and ability, and the several department commanders under whom he has served have invariably given great weight and consideration to his forcible and intelligent recommendations. While congratulating Lieutenant Colonel Mason on his well-earned promotion, the general commanding expresses his profound regret that it is the occasion of the department's losing the assistance of so efficient and valuable an officer, who bears with him to his new field of duty the best wishes of this entire command.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Next Tuesday evening the young ladies of the sodality of the cathedral, will entertain their friends in the libraryrooms.

A lawn party was given Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. H. H. Northup in honor of his niece, Miss Beulah Lee.

Last Tuesday evening an elegant lawn party was given by Mrs. H. D. Green, which was attended by one hundred and fifty well known society people.

Superfluous—"And so you learn dancing, Bob? And how do you like waltzing?" "Oh it's not bad, I can manage very well by myself, but I think a girl's rather in the way!"

Brown (Philistine)—"I heard it was all 'off' between you and Miss Roweshett." Wobbleson (aesthete)—"Ya-as. Incompatibility of complexion—she don't suit my furnitchaw!"—Punch.

Mistress—"Bridget, I cannot allow you to receive your sweetheart in the kitchen any longer. Bridget—"It's very kind of you, ma'am; but he is almost too bashful to come into the parlor."

On Tuesday the 5th inst., Mr. Harry C. Lord of Seattle, engineer of the steamer Geo. E. Starr, was married at Goldendale, W. T., to Miss Abbie S. Houghton, daughter of Dr. J. S. Houghton, territorial school superintendent.

Last Monday evening the young men of the Catholic D. and M. Society held a very pleasant meeting and extemporized a nice little programme for their own amusement. Mr. P. Beutgen, the efficient secretary, read a communication affecting an early affiliation of the society to the National Catholic Union of America.

On Tuesday last a pleasure party from Albany gave an excursion to the summit of Peterson's butte. A very enjoyable time was experienced. At 12 lunch was indulged in at a spring half way up, the party afterwards climbing to the summit, where is had one of the finest views in the state. After the descent the party repaired to the soda springs, four miles south of Lebanon, remaining until 7 P. M. The following composed the party: Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Clark, Misses Sarah and Lizzie Condit, Annie, Libbie and Kitty Althouse, Maggie and Mattie Foster, Lulu and Jennie Clark, Bessie Terrel, and Messrs. E. N. Condit, Mack Monteith, George Foster, Arthur Mattoon and Dr. E. G. Clark.

KETTLE DRUM.

A very delightful kettle drum was given by Mrs. C. H. Prescott yesterday afternoon from 4 to 7, in honor of Miss Smith, of Kansas City. Tables for four and six were set in the parlors, and at each plate an elegant boutonniere was placed. Among those present were: Mrs. R. Koehler, Mrs. Paul Schulze, Mrs. J. N. Dolph, Mrs. Wm. Wadhams, Mrs. C. A. Dolph, Mrs. Clinton Day, Mrs. Capt. Geo. J. Ainsworth, Mrs. H. Thielsen, Mrs. H. F. Suksdorf, Mrs. Theo. Wygant, Mrs. John Muir, Mrs. George Post, Mrs. H. D. Green, Mrs. Dr. H. E. Jones, Mrs. Col. G. L. Gillespie, Mrs. Dr. Corbett of San Francisco, Mrs. W. S. Ladd, Mrs. Winch, Miss Smith of Kansas City, Miss Failing, Miss Thompson and Miss Atwood.

THE FRENCH FETE.

A few days ago, at a call issued by Mr. Lobe and others to all French citizens of Portland to meet to organize and endeavor to celebrate the anniversary of the fall of the Bastile, a hearty response was given, and on the very day the club was organized with a large membership, money plentiful was subscribed. The following officers were elected: A. Labbe, honorary president; Anatole Lobe, president; Dr. H. P. Montborne, vice president; M. Bollack, secretary; S. Levy, treasurer.

A programme for the forthcoming fete was gotten up, a feature of which was the making and offering of a beautiful flag to the vice consul of France, Mr. Antoine Labbe, by the French ladies of Portland.

On Wednesday evening the delegation appointed by the club to present the flag, consisting of Messrs. Martin, Pater, Fety, Gibot, Veyer and Tournier, repaired to the apartments of the vice consul, and after appropriate introductory remarks by Mr. Martin, the president, Mr. Lobe, in behalf of the ladies of Portland, presented to the vice consul the emblem which unites all Frenchmen wherever dispersed all over the globe. In his remarks the president dwelled over the state of affairs in France prior to the fall of the Bastile, the uprising of the people, its trials and tribulations in trying through oceans of blood to establish a republican form of government which would give them happiness and freedom; their joy at overcoming at last the tyrants, and their gratitude for their present form of government which they intend to maintain forever, and as such celebrate its birthday by making the anniversary of the fall of the Bastile the national fete day of France. In conclusion the president stated that the French of Portland, though far, far away from their native land, had forever its glories in remembrance, and like other cities of the union, celebrating that day of days. They wanted to marshal themselves and fall in the line with them. This being their first celebration, would be a glorious one, and the 14th of July, 1881, would be one never forgotten in Portland. The remarks were well received, and after due time, the popping of corks was heard and a general good time ensued. Toasts to the flag, to France, to our adopted country, were numerously drank, and after a pleasant evening spent the delegation separated to meet again at Turn Halle at 8 o'clock next day.

Thursday evening Turn Halle was well filled with enthusiastic Frenchmen, and several other nationalities. The hall was brilliantly illuminated outside with Chinese lanterns, and the interior tastefully decorated with flags, flowers and evergreens. Following was the programme of exercises:

1. Overture, La Marseillaise............Orchestre
2. Discours............Dr. H. P. Montiaune
3. Star Spangled Banner............Orchestre
4. Chansonnette Comique............J. Rorvilleur
5. Romance............Van Beurden
6. Chant Patriotique............J. Pontisse
7. Christophe Colomb (Choeur)
Mrs. Pontisse, Closset, Giflin, Colson
8. La Marseillaise............C. A. Lombard

After these exercises, Mr. Labbe was presented with a handsome gold medal by Mr. Lobe on behalf of the society. A dance followed, in which about one hundred couples joined. After an hour's dancing, the company sat down to supper. The good things having been disposed of, the president called the assembly to order, and proposed the toast, "The French Republic and its President," which was responded to by M. Antoine Labbe. The toast, "The President of the United States," was responded to by J. W. D. Lonsdale, whose concluding remark was the wish that President Garfield might be restored to perfect health, which elicited a storm of cheers. The next toast was "Governor Thayer," which was responded to by Dr. H. P. Montborne, "The Municipality of Portland," responded to by C. Pater, "The French Army and Navy," responded to by Captain Martin, "The Press," responded to by H. Moline, "The Ladies," responded to by L. Rorvilleur, "The Press of Portland," responded to by Frank Blake. The toast "La Fayette" was responded to by Henry Ach.

Dancing was again resumed and continued till a late hour.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION.

ST. CHARLES HOTEL, July 15, 1881.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I was profoundly impressed this morning by the perusal of your remarkable article on the old but never exhausted subject, "The Temperance Question." I say remarkable article, because it probes this mighty question to the bottom, so far as any reasonable hope of the extermination of the evils of intemperance is concerned, and lays down the only possible basis for successful warfare against the great evil and fiend demon of society.

You say: "Law follows public opinion. Public opinion is never the creature of law." Truer logic was never applied to the temperance question, and the sooner temperance people, and especially temperance reformers, learn this first vital principle of successful warfare against the evil of intemperance the sooner will success crown their earnest but often unwise efforts.

Again, you say that "public opinion . . . the liquor drinkers and not the liquor sellers . . . create liquor selling. That the sellers are called into existence by a demand from the buyers. Pretty much all efforts for temperance reform begin, therefore, at the wrong end. * * * It is useless to fight the sellers while the buyers keep up the demand."

Your whole article is pregnant with truths vital to the temperance question, and to those who are seeking to crush out "by any and all means" the fearful scourge of intemperance, that I can not refrain, as an advocate of temperance, to call the special attention of all temperance people to an article which I regard as being most clear, comprehensive and unassailable. And when the chief efforts of temperance societies and people can be brought practically to work upon the simple basis laid down in your articles, a lasting "tidal wave of temperance" will sweep over the land. When the drinker can be impressed with the terrible fact that every husband who drinks only one one-bit drink each day steals from his wife and children forty five dollars every twelve months, besides robbing them of their rights—natural and lawful rights—to sober companionship, then the drinker may cease to buy and the seller must cease to sell. Respectfully,

A. P. TRUESDELL.

BRIEF NOTES.

No flood this year.

No United States court yesterday.

Fires and burglaries uncomfortably frequent.

Song of the season: "Away to the Mountains."

The "State" will sail hence to-morrow morning.

The Lurline will leave for Astoria this morning.

Fire alarms have assumed an epidemic form recently.

The Mendelssohn Quintette Club will be here next week.

The altitude of the mercury yesterday reminded one that July has come in earnest.

It seems quite probable that Rice and McMahon have been doing a land office business in the burglary line.

The last auction sale of Pell's consignment of dry goods occurs this day at 2 and 8 P. M. Second and Morrison streets.

The city council, which has been in labor for two weeks, on Thursday night pronounced this prayer, "Good Lord deliver us!"

WASCO ACADEMY.

In our advertising columns will be seen the announcement of Wasco Independent Academy for the fall term. This institution, though young, is rapidly becoming known as one of the best schools in the state. The building and grounds are among the finest, and its corps of instructors, with Prof. Gatch at the head, leaves nothing to be desired in that direction. The directors have ordered from the east suitable chemical and philosophical apparatus, and a geological cabinet, so there will be wanting in the way of educational facilities nothing that is to be found at any other school in Oregon.

AN AGE OF PROGRESSION.

We could not help but observe at our late state fair the great improvement in mechanical arts, especially in the line of harvesting machinery. We were more particularly impressed with the exhibit of the J. I. Case Threshing Machine Co., and the J. I. Case Plow Co. of Racine, Wisconsin. Through their Portland branch house managers, Messrs. Staver & Walker, they had the largest display ever shown on the grounds by one firm. Their exhibit consisted of three engines, one-horse power four separators, one header, and last but not least, a large assortment of plows. The value of their large exhibit, we are informed, was nearly $10,000. We first noticed their new short apron separator, pronounced the most perfect grain saving machine ever made. Then comes their four ball pinion Ettinger Woodbury power with reversible bull wheel. The managers claim it is impossible to break cogs out of this power. [illegible] new in the field, at 1 [illegible] patent balance self-adjusting [illegible] that the company may well feel proud of. [illegible] Apron [illegible] surely agitate the last grain from the straw. The largest [illegible] cylinder [illegible] the best [illegible] threshing machine we ever saw. It was [illegible] with [illegible] The [illegible] have [illegible] than any machine [illegible] Next is their [illegible] with a powerful self-propelling, self-steering traction [illegible] Although it was not moved [illegible] any visible power except the engineer who drives [illegible] They have [illegible] burn straw [illegible] Next their power [illegible] and strength [illegible] They also have [illegible] and [illegible]

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH IS OVER.

Business is quiet all over the city; but ISAAC BARMAN don't feel the effect of it.

THE REASONS ARE:

That he still continues to sell the immense stock of Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods, which he bought of Mr. A. MEYER at such very low figures, at prices that will astonish the closest buyer.

That his entire stock must be sold on or before the 1st day of September, in order to make room for his immense fall stock.

That he is offering Great Bargains, having reduced—

Suits from $15 00 to $10 00
Suits from $17 50 to $12 50
Suits from $20 00 to $15 00
Suits from $22 50 to $17 50
Suits from $25 00 to $20 00

That he is offering his entire stock of Furnishing Goods at 75 cents on the dollar.

That he has marked down his entire stock of Scarfs and Ties at 50 cents on the dollar.

That he is compelled to raise money, and he will not let up until he has it.

Make use of the opportunity before it is too late.

THE DISPUTED BALLOT.

The Evening Telegram speaks thus of the submission to Judge Lord of the question whether a certain ballot cast in the recent city election is a legal one:

This is an easy way for the council to shirk the responsibility, which their duty as officers of the city imposes on them, but whether they had the right to do so, under any law of the state, is a serious question. The law provides a tribunal in which every controversy between men can be settled, but the council has set up a tribunal, unknown to the code, and submitted to it a question which is solely within its own jurisdiction. If the matter could be taken before Judge Lord in legal form, the public might rely with implicit confidence in his decision, but there is no more law in leaving it to him in the way the council has done, than there would have been for leaving it to Mr. Simon or to Mr. Thompson. Judge Lord knows what the law is, and so does every man in the council and everybody else who has taken any interest in the matter, for it has been published time and again in all the newspapers in the city during the past two or three weeks. It is found in chapter 11, title 11, section 25 of the Miscellaneous Laws of Oregon, page 672 of the code, and reads in words and punctuation exactly as follows: "If the ballot should be found to contain a greater number of names for any office, than the number of persons required to fill that office, it shall be considered fraudulent as to the whole of the names designated to fill such office, but no further." What this means it certainly does not require the highest talent in the state to determine, and the council stultifies itself by calling upon the chief justice to tell them what such plain, simple language means.

A FINE HAIR DRESSING.

Cocoaine dresses the hair perfectly and is also a preparation unequaled for the eradication of dandruff. The superiority of Burnett's Flavoring Extracts consists in their perfect purity and great strength.

THE LATEST CRAZE.

Animated Jewelry—Live Beetles and Green Snakes Worn by Fair Ladies.

"Here is something new in the way of ornamentation," a salesman in a large uptown jewelry store said, opening a box for the inspection of a New York Sun reporter. Out walked a monster beetle, fully four inches in length. About its body was a solid gold band, locked by a tiny padlock, to which was attached a costly gold chain, about two inches in length, fastened to a pin. The beetle's back glistened in light, having been treated to a dress of gold, and as it lumbered along its long legs worked together in a curious fashion. "It's a shawl pin. You see the pin is used to fasten lace or a shawl or perhaps worn on the bonnet, the insect crawling around the length of the chain. They are perfectly harmless and not expensive, as they live on air. That is, they have never been seen to eat. This one was brought here to mount, which is a very fine operation, as the legs and antennæ are all so delicate. After all, there is nothing objectionable about them, except the idea of having them crawl over you. They all come from South America, and the only lot in the city is to be taken to France, where the owner will try to introduce the fashion of wearing them. They cost from $10 to $50, depending entirely on the amount of the ring. There is nothing cruel about it, as they are bound loosely, and the gold has no effect upon their hard sides.

In Brazil the fashion of wearing beetles is carried to a great extent. A well known resident has a beetle with a collar of gold, which meets at the top, and is there ornamented with a diamond of great value. The insect has a cage, surrounded by the plants among which it lives in its native state, and nothing is neglected to make it as comfortable as possible. But the most popular insect used for an ornament in Brazil is a small phosphorescent beetle. These are often worn fastened in the hair, and as the two phosphorescent or light-giving spots are on the sides of the head, the black insect is, of course, invisible, especially when in the raven locks of the fair Brazilians. Twenty or thirty of these beetles will throw out a light sufficient to read by, and when arranged around the head in a circle, or grouped over the forehead and held in place, the effect is beautiful.

Several years ago a New York lady gave a masquerade ball at her summer house in Newport. The dancing was on the lawn, and the guests were requested to be there half an hour before dark. The hostess wore the costume of night, and in the daylight her black dress, covered with ivy leaves, did not attract special attention, but when she appeared in the gay throng after dark she presented a perfect blaze of light, and was the center of the admiring and wondering company. Tremulous waves of reddish-yellow flame seemed to move over her entire dress, while a cap on her head gleamed one great fiery star. The cause of this illumination was the phosphorescent light of more than 5000 fire-flies. For weeks previous to the ball the designer of the costume had been storing away fire-flies, and on the day of the fete they were rapidly put on the dress. As the light-giving spot is on the ventral surface, each one was placed on its back and held down by a fine silver wire, so skillfully caught that it could not turn over or escape, and was not injured. The star was formed of many beetles.

In Jamaica a large beetle, the lampyris, is used by ladies. Some of the phosphorescent beetles used by them give out lights that have to be seen to be appreciated, and more than twenty different kinds are used, representing as many different degrees of light, shade, tint, etc. One, the pyrolampis, has a rich orange color, changing to yellow, flickering in intermittent flashes of light; another, called photuris, is curious for the gradual increase of light it shows; commencing with a faint reddish hue, it rapidly grows in brilliancy, finally blazing like a torch, a rich green light, and then dying away to reappear again. There are [illegible] other light-giving beetles, and frequently numbers of lesser lights are seen flitting around them, combining red and yellow lights of the greatest brilliancy. Other uses are made of these beautiful creatures than as ornaments. Travelers have fastened them to their feet and carried them in baskets of wicker to light their way in the dark. Southey mentions this in the following lines in his poem, Madoc:

> She beckoned and descended, and drew out
> From underneath her vest a cage, or net
> It rather might be called, so fine the twigs
> Which knit it, where, confined, two fire-flies gave
> Their lustre.

Snakes have been used as ornaments, the small, inoffensive green snakes being the most popular, on account of their beauty and harmless nature. They coil around the arm, clinging on with all the tenacity of their golden, bejeweled imitators that are now so fashionable. Animals, or parts of them, although naturally the adjuncts of barbaric splendor, are greatly used in the make-up of fashionable toilets of the present day. Some of the handsomest sleeve-buttons and studs are made of polished fish skin—sharks or dogfish being preferred, as they take a fine polish, and closely resemble the fossil coral favorites, that are also used, and when highly polished the delicate cells that were once the home of the coral polyp are distinctly visible, and as a whole resemble honeycomb.

An expensive costume was a cape made of an extremely rare humming bird. The whole bird was hardly larger than one's thumb, and on its breast a single patch of gold was found about an inch in length. The cloak was composed wholly of these patches, and in the sunlight must have vied with golden fleece. The birds are valued at $50 each.

A lady in St. Augustine created a sensation by appearing in public with a chameleon resting on her head-dress, and held there by a delicate silver chain. The little creature was perfectly tame and made no attempt to escape; but when touched by other than its owner its throat puffed up and curious waves of color passed over the whole body, ranging from deep green to dark brown. Small lizards are used in Egypt by some of the native ladies as ornaments, and lie half concealed in the drapery that overhangs the face. The red-clawed soldier crab are sometimes used in Mexico as pins. The crab is dislodged from its stolen shell and given a beautiful golden one, or one that has been plated with gold or silver. Fastened to the lace by a pin and chain they make unique ornaments.

Power of the Waves.

The tremendous power of sea waves was illustrated at Wick, on the extreme northern coast of Scotland, where a break-water was being built. It may give an idea of what wave power really can do. It was found that stones of ten tons weight were as pebbles to the waves, which have been measured to be there fifty-two feet from crest to the bottom of the trough. The outer end of the break-water, where the storms beat most violently, was built of three courses of one hundred-ton stones, laid on the rubble foundation; next above these were three courses of large flat stones, and upon these a mass of concrete built on the spot, of cement and rubble. The end of the break-water was thought to be as immovable as the natural rock, yet the resident engineer saw it yield to the force of the waves and swing around into the troubled water inside the pier. It gave way not in fragments, but in one mass, as if it were a monolith. The displaced mass is estimated to weigh about 1,350 tons.

Little Johnny on Dogs.

One time there was a feller bot a dog of a man in the market, and the dog it was a biter. After it had bit the feller four or five times he threw a clothes line over its neck and led it back to the man in the market, and he said to the dog man, the feller did: "Ole man, didn't you use to have this dog?" The dog man he looked at the dog, then he thot awhile, and then he said: "Well, yes; I had him bout half the time, and the other half he had me." Then the feller he was fewrious mad, and he said: "What did you sell me such a dog as this for?" And the ole man he spoke up and said: "For $4.75 lottle money." Then the feller he guessed he would go home if the dog was willing.

The First Newspaper.

Boston possesses the honor of having issued, in 1690, the first newspaper printed in America. Only one copy of this paper is now known to be in existence, and this one is about the size of an ordinary sheet of letter paper. It is deposited in the state paper office in London, having been suppressed by English authority. The Boston News Letter, issued in 1704, was the first regular paper, and was printed by John Allen, of Pudding Lane. Among other interesting items, it contained a speech of Queen Anne, delivered to parliament 120 days several only, and this was the latest news from England.

WHAT IS NICKEL?

The Material out of which our Five Cent Coin is made.

Since the convenient 5-cent coin, which in common talk is called "a nickel," has come into general circulation, the question what is nickel either mentally or orally, [illegible] of times every day, and but few get an intelligent answer. In China and India a white copper, called packfong, has long been known, and has been extensively used both there and in Europe for counterfeiting silver coin. About the year 1750 a peculiar ore was discovered in the copper mines of Saxony, which had the appearance of being very rich, but in smelting it yielded no copper, and the miners called it kupfernickel, or false copper. In 1751 Cronstadt announced the discovery of a new metal, nickel, from kupfernickel. It was in combination with arsenic, from which he could relieve it only in parts. The alloy of nickel and arsenic which he obtained was white, brittle, and very hard. It had a melting point nearly as high as cast iron. It was not until 1823 that pure nickel was obtained by analysis of German silver, which had for a number of years been produced at Suhl in Saxony. Its composition was ascertained to be copper ten parts, zinc five and nickel four. If more nickel be used the alloy is as white as silver and susceptible of a very high polish, but becomes too brittle and hard to be hammered or rolled, and can be worked only by casting. Pure nickel is a white metal, and it tarnishes readily in the air. Unlike silver it is not acted on by the vapor of sulphur, and even the strong mineral acids attack it but slightly. Nickel has the hardness of iron and, like it, has strong magnetic properties, but can not be welded, and is soldered with difficulty. Pure nickel has heretofore been used chiefly for plating, for which purpose its hardness and power to resist atmospheric influences admirably adapt it. Within the last year the French have succeeded in rolling the metal into plates, from which spoons and other table furniture may be pressed. Nickel bronze, which consists of equal parts of copper and nickel, with a little tin, may be cast into very delicate forms, and is susceptible of a high polish. Mines of nickel are worked at Chatham, Ct., and Lancaster, Pa., and it is said to be found at Mine La Motte, Mo., and at several points in Colorado and New Mexico, where but little attention is paid to it. It is extensively mined in Saxony and in Sweden, but the late discovery of a new ore, a silicate of nickel, in New Caledonia will probably suspend the use of the arsenical ores, and yet bring nickel into common use. Switzerland, in the year 1852, made a coin of German silver, which is identical in composition with our nickel coin. The United States made nickel cents in 1856, and eight years later coined the five cent pieces. Belgium adopted nickel coinage in 1860 and Germany in 1873. England has lately coined pennies for Jamaica, but at home she and France adhere to the clumsy copper small change.

The Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, July 15. The demand for wool has been fair and business of the week good. Average supplies continue to arrive quite freely, receipts of domestic for the past two weeks amount to 13,800,000 pounds. There is now a fine assortment of all kinds offering. Sales of one week have been 2,257,000 pounds. Washed fleeces have been rather neglected, and, for them prices are a shade lower, but all other kinds are very firm. Manufacturers are now well supplied with wool. [illegible] We look for a comparatively quiet market for a few weeks. [illegible] [illegible]

San Francisco Tonnage.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—The present state of the freight market [illegible] to the future course, and [illegible] operators differ considerably. The [illegible] tonnage here is certainly very large, but that it is or will be sufficient to carry [illegible] grain movement at rates of freight [illegible] unless Europe has such a large crop this year that less than an average quantity of wheat will be drawn from this country. This view is taken by some exporters as shown by the fact that £3 10s has been paid for iron vessels, end of November cancelling, and it is reported that £3 7s 6d has been paid for the same class of tonnage, end of December cancelling. These are certainly full rates for such late cancellation dates, particularly when the tonnage due the meanwhile is considered, and that it should be done shows that there is considerable confidence placed in the future of the market. The week past has been an uneventful one, no spot charter being drawn during the period, while a number of vessels came to hand, all but two of which were under engagement. The lastest charter reported is the British ship Cairnsmore, 975 tons wheat, to Cork, U. K., 68s 9d, prior to arrival.

The Liverpool Grain Market.

OPEN LETTER FROM M. YOUNG, OF GERVAIS.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: My attention having been called to a "yellow poster" which is being circulated by the Wood's Twine Binder Agents, wherein my statement of the field trial of self-binding harvesters, which took place on my farm June 21st, is published very differently from what I signed it. I did not say that the Wood's Binder pulled any easier than the other machines would with three horses. I did not say that the Wood's Twine did not clog in the packer, for I know that it did. I did not say that the Wood's Binder did better work than the other two machines competing. I did not say that the Wood's Binder left less scattered grain where the bundles lay than the other machines did. I did not say that I would be qualified to any statement made. I did say, however, that all the machines did better work than I expected they would.

In conclusion I would say that a large portion of my published statement was erased by me before signing, and no one was authorized to make any such statement over my signature. While I consider the different machines competing did fair work, there is still room for improvement, and my sole object in making any statement whatever was to the interest of the farmers and not the machine men. I consider some of the statements made relative to the trial decidedly too highly colored and should be taken with considerable allowance.

M. YOUNG.
